FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE | SEPTEMBER 29, 2026

Songs for the One launches personalized songs written from real memories, starting at $49.99

Families can hear a free preview of a song made for one person before they pay anything.

BOYNTON BEACH, Fla., September 29, 2026. Songs for the One, a Florida company, has launched a service that turns a short conversation about someone you love into an original, fully produced song. Instead of filling out a long form, customers talk or type with Melody, an AI song guide, for about 3 to 7 minutes. Melody asks about the person, a few memories and the sound they want, then writes the lyrics and records the song.

Customers hear a free preview of their actual song before buying. The Song costs $49.99. Cover art is $4.99 extra, lyric / musical video $24.99, and streaming release $39. Full Music Video is a separate $299 premium add-on offered after song purchase, with typical delivery 5–7 days after song finalization. Every paid song includes an MP3 download, a lyrics sheet, a private gift page shared by link, and five free re-records, so buyers can change a whole song or just one part, like the chorus.

Songs are sung by AI vocals, and the company is open about that. Songs are usually between about 2:40 and 3:40 long and cover occasions such as anniversaries, weddings, birthdays, Mother's Day and Father's Day, memorials, faith milestones, and songs from grandparents to grandchildren. The core song is usually ready in minutes, which makes it a practical last-minute gift with no shipping.

Songs for the One also publishes hundreds of free guides on its blog about meaningful gifts, last-minute gifts and family keepsakes. Ten percent of profits support Acts2024.Media.
